He was also thanked for working with the PTO on a time capsule. Many student comments were shared illustrating Mr. Elgeness’ ability to make learning fun.

Volunteer of the Year: (out of order) Molly Carl was honored as volunteer of the year for her work on the cultural festival/artist in residence and cultural arts. The co-presidents praised Molly, noting that her enthusiasm is enormous, and she has been an integral force in reframing our cultural arts collection, and revamping cultural arts.

Time Capsule: student government is putting together a time capsule to remember this year and the big move during school construction. The time capsule is almost done.

Storage and Photo Book: Amy reported that almost all items have now been moved to the storage locker. If you need to add anything to the storage locker, please contact Amy. Amy and Molly Carl took pictures of everything owned by the PTO and created a snapfish book. A copy of the book will be housed in the library. The PTO presidents will have a copy. Dr. Limperis also has a copy. Jeannine also thanked Nancy Hopkins for her help on the PTO Snapfish book.

Playground slate updates: Amy reported that possible solutions are being looked into to increase safety in the front playground, including grinding the slate down, or removal of the slate and replacement with a softer medium. Dr. Limperis also reported that the flagpole will be shortened and the pulley system will be replaced.

Bell Tower Architect Meeting: There has been discussion about restoring the bell tower during the construction, although the bell tower is not included in the construction plan. Jeannine reported there is a room in the bell tower, but it does not have two forms of entrance/egress to make it safe for children. The floor and roof need to be repaired, the bricks need to be sealed. The good news is the bell will ring again with the replacement of a rope and the pulley fixed. A discussion was had about fire safety and using the room as a teacher planning area. However, children cannot be in the bell tower room.
